

ROBIN

John Winthrop of New London sold to William Wallworth of Groton Indian slave ROBIN 20 Feb. 1719/20. In return, Wallworth was to procure for Winthrop healthy Negro boy, ae. 12-14, from the Barbadoes. Wallworth failed to deliver the boy, and Winthrop brought suit against him. (N.L. Co.

Ct., Sept. 1721). A memorandum of ct. costs, June 1723, lists debt to Ann Ruff, innkeeper and jailer, for keeping Indian Robin and to Thomas Fosdyke for shackling an imprisoned Indian Robin. (Ibid., June 1723)
